

Role of Institutional Partners

Mission Success: The success of the efforts channeled through the Foundation to empower the billions depends on a number of critical factors. Everyone involved shall have proper understanding of this unique, emerging and proven method, with adequate information of its potential and limitations. Each Direct / Beneficiary entity requires a minimum critical number of participants (based on their individual and collective needs, location, resources for private or public access to the internet, terrain, core competence, etc.) for long term success and sustainability.

Stake-holders in the economic progress of the Billions of poor:

- ✓ The urban and rural citizens who are enrolled as the 'Beneficiary / Direct Member'
- ✓ The talented individuals who volunteer their time and efforts for this mission
- ✓ Rural and Urban Development institutions, projects, programs, etc.
  - Employment generation programs
  - Education and skill development projects
  - Economic progress projects
- ✓ Government sectors – for G2G, G2C, G2E domains
  - Federal, State and local government bodies
  - Ministries / Departments at various levels
  - Local appointed / elected bodies / courts / departments / etc.
- ✓ Public & Private sectors, SME for B2B, E2E domains
  - Public service / utility bodies
- ✓ Educational institutions
  - Universities, colleges, county school systems,
  - Technical institutes, community colleges, etc.
  - Distance tuition & learning (Math, Science, Literature, Arts, Music, Dance, etc.).
  - Corporations train staff & distributors (new product/equipment/technology, etc.)
  - Online self-help courses, (Home-remodeling/Gardening/Aquaculture/Floriculture, etc.)
- ✓ Financial institutions
  - Banks, investment / Insurance / Real estate / Accounting firms / Tax consultants
  - Commercial financing institutions / Commodity Traders
- ✓ Healthcare institutions
  - Hospitals – metro and rural, clinics, diagnostic centers, labs, physio-therapy, etc.
  - Doctors, Chiropractors, Dentists, various healthcare providers, etc.

maximize the use, conservation, protection, purification, etc. with indigenous facilities or update them as required, by imparting appropriate knowledge of relevant modern technology / innovative methods.

- (ii) Distance Learning: A University / Technical / Vocational College offers courses online to the enrollees at various Internet Access Centers using Electronic Connectivity to provide Knowledge Connectivity. The courses on relevant subjects offer diploma, certification or credit hours. The details and any applicable fees shall be listed in the respective Institutional Partner's and the Foundation website. The enrollees decide what courses are relevant to their needs, what they want to learn and structure their program accordingly, using Tele-Education.
- (iii) Tele-Medicine: Tertiary care hospitals / healthcare institutes and various consultants provide online access to primary care doctors / care givers in rural / urban / mobile healthcare centers. Tele-Medicine enables input from the consultants willing to provide their expertise on a live basis, with centralized cloud computing technology, Tele-Conferencing, etc.
- (iv) Preventive Measures: Charitable institutes interact with the Beneficiary organizations to design / develop / deploy specific healthcare programs they focus on. For example, to address eradication of cervical cancer, the entity works with the Beneficiary organization to educate the citizens about the illness, early detection, prevention using vaccination at a certain age, etc. The Beneficiary organization will coordinate the local efforts to ensure maximum benefit to its constituents from all preventive care projects.
- (v) Employment Generation: Industries / businesses / corporations provide skill development, vocational training and similar measures online, to facilitate employment opportunities. They may decide to set up their back-office, branch, manufacturing or subsidiary in the rural / urban settings with high unemployment after the skill development courses enable recruitment.
- (vi) Limitless Possibilities: The ways in which institutions may participate in this mission to empower deserving billions of the world is limited only by one's imagination. There are innumerable avenues to provide help, mentoring, support, sponsorship and guidance to every Beneficiary on a limited or ongoing basis to become self-sufficient. The vibrant emergence of such empowered clusters will expand the customer base helping eradicate poverty.
- (vii) Staff Involvement: Institutions shall encourage their own staff to devote an hour or two in an individual capacity to promote education, healthcare, sanitation, technology, vocational training, etc. using Tele-Conference, Tele-Ed, Tele-Med capabilities.

Funding the projects ?

- (i) Sponsorships and Generosity: 'For-profit' institutions who shall offer their help / support free of cost fees are very much appreciated for their generosity.
- (ii) Subsidized Rates: The Foundation requests each For-profit entity to offer their products / services / support at a substantially subsidized rate so that the Beneficiary recipients can afford them. The Institutional Partners may contact willing sponsors they are aware of - to fund / under-write several projects in empowering the deserving Billions of the world.
- (iii) Rural Development Allotments: Projects such as roads to link the villages in the rural cluster, building nodal centers, schools, rural hospitals, clinics, business centers, market place, parks, etc. require funding and financial resources. The Beneficiary officers will contact appropriate government entities within their geographic area and seek adequate funding for development projects. They shall also seek grants and donations from generous minded entities.

The Foundation provides the forum: The Foundation brings together the Beneficiary / Direct Members with the individual volunteers and institutional partners located in various countries. Respective officials and constituents of the Beneficiary Member shall interact with the willing parties to take up the project. The Foundation does not charge any fees or act as a paid agent and does not seek any monetary rewards. Our mission is to help the deserving citizens of this world become empowered and attain self- sufficiency in a number of areas.
